Get ready to hear from one of the most accomplished voices in real estate investing and entrepreneurship.

At just three years old, Odis D. James III was attending real estate investment meetings with his father, unknowingly beginning a journey that would span decades across entrepreneurship, real estate, finance, leadership and business development.

Today, he is a full-time real estate investor, licensed real estate broker, seven-time published author, entrepreneur, educator, and founder of 4 Data Points Academy and VentureU International Business Retreats.

Over the course of his career, he has overseen more than $650 million in multifamily commercial real estate assets, consulted on development projects throughout the United States and abroad, and funded more than $1 billion in real estate transactions as a mortgage broker.

He has owned and operated businesses in multiple industries, built a seven-figure company starting with only $585, and dedicated his career to helping others create wealth, build businesses and achieve financial independence.

His students, clients and audiences know him best for one thing above all else: his ability to take complex concepts and turn them into practical strategies that everyday people can understand and apply.

Whether you're joining from across the country, around the world, or sitting in the audience today, you're about to hear from someone who doesn't just teach entrepreneurship and investing. He lives it.
